GARDEN CITY, L. I., Sept. 9.—Princeton won the team championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association to-day, scoring the first victory in the history of the organization. The Tiger golfers won from Harvard, 5 matches to 4, in the final round over the course of the Garden City Golf Club.

It was a nip and tuck struggle all of the way, three of the nine matches going to extra holes. In fact only two matches of the entire lot were finished before the seventeenth green was reached, showing that the collegians all were out for blood.

In the morning when the foursomes were played Princeton had a little the better of it and won two of the three matches, gaining an advantage of one point, which was held to the end, as the singles in the afternoon resulted in an even break. Two of the foursomes went to extra holes. B. M. Baker, Jr., and Samuel P. Griffiths scored Harvard's only morning point when they beat W. A. Barber, Jr., and William A. Lowrie of Princeton on the twenty-first green. G. A. Peacock and J. B. Ross of Princeton won on the nineteenth from E. P. Allis 3d and J. W. Hubbell of Harvard. The third foursome was won by L. M. Washburn and R. N. B. Fay of Princeton, who beat S. W. Canan and J. O. Heyburn of Harvard 3 up and 1 to play.

Harvard was the first to score in the afternoon when B. M. Baker, Jr., disposed of his Princeton opponent, W. A. Barber, Jr., by 4 up and 5 to play. A few minutes later S. P. Griffiths added another point to Harvard's total by beating W. A. Lewis by 2 up and 1 to play. L. M. Washburn, Princeton, and J. W. Hubbell, Harvard, were the next to come in and Washburn revived the Tiger hopes with a 2 and 1 victory over Hubbell.

Right behind Washburn and Hubbell were E. P. Allis 3d, the Harvard captain, and Russell N. Fay of Princeton. Allis was 2 up at the fourteenth, but Fay won back a hole, and they drove across the pond to the home green with the Harvard man 3 up. All he needed to do was to halve the hole, but he played into a trap and lost. On the first extra hole Fay seemingly had the match won, but Allis held him a half-stroke, and he failed to get down his ten inch putt through overconfidence in his own skill. The final round was decided by the fourth hole in his opponent's ball.

Going to the home green, Allis won 3 to 4, and took the match, putting Harvard a point ahead.

G. A. Peacock, Princeton, soon evened the score again by his 4 to 3 victory over S. W. Canan, and the championship depended upon the outcome of the last match, between F. Ross of Princeton and J. O. Heyburn of Harvard.

The home green, Rose was 3 up to 4, and took the match, putting Harvard a point ahead.

Frederick Johnson's Striker, a 10 to 1 shot, won the first race, at six and a half furlongs, with the favorite, Fascinating, finishing outside the money. Andrew Miller's Bac was beaten by winning the second race, at a mile and a half, which he was favorite, and the talent had a good wind up by the victory of the Metropolitan Stable's Montrose, a 7 to 10 choice for the last race.
